Farm Bill options presented

by Anne Ehni

Information about the 2014 Farm Bill was presented to 115 agricultural producers Monday, Nov. 17, in Fessenden. Conducted as a joint effort of Wells County Farm Services Agency (FSA), Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), and NDSU Extension Office, the meeting intended to provide an overview of Farm Bill program options that producers will have to consider, if they choose to participate.

There are two options. Option #1 is the Agricultural Risk Coverage (ARC). This covers the risk of the farmer not receiving targeted revenue. The producer will only collect a payment if their revenues do not fall within a range of target revenue, calculated by the USDA.

The other option is Price Loss Coverage (PLC) in conjunction with crop insurance Supplemental Coverage Option (SCO). PLC will make a payment if the calculated US average price for a crop falls below certain targets.

If a producer does not make a one-time election in 2014, between PLC and ARC, they will be automatically enrolled in PLC and they will not receive any payment for the 2014 crop year. Also, if a producer elects ARC coverage, the SCO is not available to the farmer for the 2014-2018 crop year.

The process, as explained by FSA Executive Director, Eric Bollinger, has three parts. First landowners can update their Base acres and yields. The deadline for this first step is Feb. 27. While this is not mandatory, it is something that landowners should look at and make sure that the numbers on file with FSA are up to date.

Once acres and yields are updated, the producer will elect whether they will opt for participation in either the Farm Bill's ARC or PLC program. The deadline for this is step is March 31.

Finally, enrollment in the Farm Program will take place between mid-April through September.

Pam Copenhaver, NRCS Wells Co. District Conservationist, explained that compliance with conservation provisions have been linked to eligibility in obtaining the federal subsidy of the producer's crop insurance. If producers are out of compliance, including converted wetlands or highly erodible land, they could lose federal insurance subsidy, which will vary from 60-70% of the insurance premium.

North Dakota has not released specific guidance to county offices, but Copenhaver directed producers to the guidance at the NRCS federal level and welcomed producers to visit with her office, if they have questions.

Lindsay Maddock, Wells County NDSU Extension Agent, presented information about an "analyzer" tool NDSU has designed to assist landowners and producers evaluate options under the 2014 Farm Bill. The spreadsheet is available at <http://www.ag.ndsu.edu/farmmanagement/farm-bill>, under the "Tools" section.

"It is all a very complicated and time consuming process," Bollinger explained. He encouraged landowners and producers to attend informational meetings, study options, enlist assistance from crop insurance companies, and, he said, "Most importantly, don't wait until the last minute to come in to the FSA office to sign up."

The staff of FSA and NRCS are available to provide information and resources, but they cannot advise someone what option will be best.

'Reverse 9-1-1' in effect

Wells County has contracted with CodeRed to provide "reverse 9-1-1" services to Wells County. Now in effect for Wells County, it is an emergency notification service that allows emergency officials to notify residents and businesses by telephone, cell phone, text message, email and social media regarding time-sensitive general and emergency notifications.

Visit www.wellscountynd.com to log in and register your cell numbers and/or email addresses to receive the notification of your choice. If you cannot register online, call Janelle Pepple, Wells County 9-1-1 coordinator at 547-3319 to register over the telephone.

If you have a landline phone in Wells County, that information is already in the system for "Reverse 9-1-1" purposes.

If you have problems or questions, contact Pepple at 547-3319.

When will CodeRED be used?

Any message regarding the safety, property or welfare of the community will be disseminated using the CodeRED system. These may include AMBER alerts, notifications of hazardous traffic or road conditions, boil water advisories or evacuation notices.

Does CodeRED replace other systems that have been used to provide time-sensitive information to residents?

This system is an enhancement to existing means of communication.

Does the CodeRED system already have my telephone number, or do I need to sign up to receive CodeRED notifications?

The CodeRED database contains information received from public databases, including regional phonebooks. However, no resident should assume that their information is in the system. The home page of the Wells County website, www.wellscountynd.com has a link to the CodeRED Community Notification Enrollment page where you can register online.

Can I arrange to have CodeRED contact my business?

Yes. Fill out the CodeRED registration form but select the "This address is business" option. Emergency calls can only be delivered to a direct dial number. Automated attendants will disrupt the process and the calls will not be delivered. Businesses should register their main number and establish a procedure for distributing the CodeRED message to their workforce.

What if I want to register additional numbers for my address?

After you submit the initial registration form, start the registration again and submit more numbers for the same address.

Is my personal information protected?

CodeRED is a service of Emergency Communications Network which takes security and privacy concerns very seriously. They will not sell, trade, lease or loan any data citizen supplied data to third parties.

How will I recognize a CodeRED message?

A CodeRED Emergency message will have a caller ID of 866-419-5000. A CodeRED General message will have a caller ID 855-969-4636. We suggest you program both numbers in your cell phone as a "new contact" and use "CodeRED Emergency" and "CodeRED General" as the contact name. If you need to replay the emergency notification message again, simply dial the number and you will be able to hear the message again.

What should I do if I receive a CodeRED message?

Listen carefully to the entire message. Do not call 911 for further information unless directed to do so or if you need immediate aid from the police or fire department.

I have a cordless phone, and it does not work when the power goes out. How will the system be able to contact me?

Make sure you have at least one working corded telephone with the ringer on. The sign-up form allows you to indicate both a primary and alternate phone number. Cell phone and/or work phone numbers can be entered as alternate phone numbers. Both primary and alternate phone numbers will be contacted when a notification is sent.

Will the CodeRED system leave a message on an answering machine?

Yes, the CodeRED system will leave a message on a machine or on voicemail. The CodeRED system will leave the entire message in one pass.

What happens if the line is busy?

CodeRED will try two more times to connect.

What circumstances might prevent a message from being delivered to me?

If your contact information has changed and you have not registered new information.

If you have only cordless phones in your residence, the power is out and you did not register an alternate phone number.

If line is busy for an extended time and your calls do not forward to voicemail/answering machine.

If you have a phone privacy manager and you did not register an alternate phone number.

Wells County will receive a report of undelivered calls and can instruct the CodeRED system to begin another round of calls to busy numbers. It is best to have an alternate number in the calling database for these situations.

To appreciate education, teachers

American Education Week activities

by Kathy Kennedy

When it comes to commemorations or celebrations, November is most commonly associated with Veterans Day and Thanksgiving. A lesser known celebration that occurs in this month is American Education Week.

American Education Week was celebrated Nov. 17-21 to celebrate public education and honor individuals who are making a difference in ensuring that every child receives a quality education. This year's theme was "Great Public Schools: A Basic Right and Our Responsibility." This was reflected in special observances each day of the week-long celebration.

At B.M. Hanson Elementary in Harvey, the week began with an assembly Monday morning. Heidi Olson talked to the students about the Character Counts Pillar of Caring. She was followed by Bret Dockter asking for students' involvement with the community project this year—the Harvey swimming pool. Students were informed about American Education Week with Principal Shane Sagert and some teachers modeling hats to explain they could wear hats on Tuesday if they paid one dollar. The proceeds will go toward a scholarship to someone studying to be a teacher. All of these talks were tied together as a way students could show their care for their community and others.

Tuesday was then "Hats Off to Teachers Day" with many students and teachers donning hats and caps. After their faculty meeting, the teachers were treated to muffins and juice provided by the Junior High Student Council. Wednesday was the beginning of Wellness Wednesdays for grades K-3 with students and teachers walking in the gym before school. Instead of apples for the teachers, students were given apples from the teachers at the end of their walk. Thursday, students dressed as teachers and the faculty wore teacher apparel (teacher jewelry, pins, shirts, sweaters, etc.). On Friday, grades 4-6 and their teachers walked in the gym for Fitness Fridays and played Teacher Bingo challenging how well they knew their teachers.

The High School Student Council presented the high school staff with highlighters to indicate that the teachers "Are the highlight of this school." The students also distributed packets of M&M candies with each color representing an aspect of their educators... green for inspiration, blue for patience, orange for warmth and caring, etc. The Junior High Student Council provided muffins and juice for the high school staff, as well.

The activities for American Education Week were designed not to be distractions from the students' studies, but to make them aware of the importance of their public education and to show appreciation for their teachers.

Students answer questions about their teachers:

What do teachers do when not teaching?

Christian Swang, kindergarten: They feed their kids then go to bed.

Tyler Swang, 2nd grade: They take a nap and watch T.V. They cook and eat, too.

Maleina Joubert, 3rd grade: They stay at school late and correct papers. They go home to take care of their family. They cook and then go to bed because they have to get up early to go to school the next day.

Do you want to be a teacher? Why or why not?

Emma Dockter, 4th grade: Yes. You can teach other kids and tell them what you know.

Emilie Nannenga, 5th grade: Yes. I want to teach little kids because I like doing all the fun projects they do. I love reading so I'd like to teach others to read.

Korey Smigelsky, 6th grade: No. I don't want to deal with little kids. They can be super annoying...especially little girls.

Bringing flavor to Wells County

by Michelle Jensen

Lately, Wells County has been alive with the buzz of new businesses. This past week saw another grand opening, this time in Cathay. Brenda Gorseth hosted the official open house for Woodward Farm. She has spent much of the past year in construction and development of the commercial kitchen and bakery.

The original plan for a new building was diverted into a renovation of a two-car garage after costs began to escalate. "Things work out for a reason though," Gorseth said. Having the business connected to the home has provided the small business owner with a better work flow and more efficient access to the fields where her ingredients, like raspberries and jalapenos grow.

A Pride of Dakota member, Gorseth's baked goods, jams and relishes have had a following for years. She decided to pursue a full-time retail business, and the idea for Woodward Farm was born. She praises the North Dakota State Health Department for helping make her dream a reality. "They provided me with all of the information that I needed, and they walked me through the process and were there to answer my questions," she said.

The new kitchen handles all three components of the business, baking, processing and the recently discovered catering. "I stumbled into catering, and found that I just love it. I usually have a job a week, sometimes two. I love that every day looks different," Gorseth said. Woodward Farm's wholesale side of the business is starting to take off, with outlets opening as far as Minot and Fargo. Gorseth is planning to partner with Cornerstone Coffee in Fessenden, another new business opening soon at The Q. Folks will be able to order coffee and Woodward Farm baked goods from the new store. They will also be able to place and pick up orders for breads, kitchens, jams, salsa, and more.

Fresh, local produce is the key to Woodward Farm's flavors. Gorseth grows the majority of her ingredients herself, then processing and preparing them. She also buys from local suppliers and avoids frozen or canned ingredients. She plans to use the winter months to experiment with new recipes, test new flavors and be prepared for the busy summer season kick-off in May. She's looking forward to adding some gluten-free options to her menu.

This week will be spent processing a new batch of Raspberry-Jalapeno Jam, which sold out during the open house. Woodward Farm's next adventure is the Pride of Dakota Holiday Showcase in Bismarck, Dec. 5-7.

Gorseth encourages anyone with questions about Woodward Farm to contact her at www.facebook.com/WoodwardFarm5662. A website will be coming soon, and Gorseth is looking forward to a busy 2015.

Recent Arrival

Cooper Marvin Muscha

Justin and Kaila Muscha, Fessenden, became the parents of a son, born September 15, 2014. Cooper weighed 10 lbs. 1 oz. and was 22.5 inches long.

Grandparents are Darrel and Connie Heins and Don and Kathy Muscha, Fessenden, and Mark and Bina Krebsbach, Bismarck.

Grant funds awarded to health unit for HPV vaccine

Brittany Long, RN, with Wells County District Health Unit, announced that the North Dakota Department of Health Comprehensive Cancer Control Program has awarded grant funds to Wells County District Health Unit. The funds will be used to increase the percentage of students in Wells County who receive the Human Papillomavirus vaccine (HPV).

Long said, "HPV vaccine is very important because it prevents cancer. The Wells County District Health Unit is committed to making vaccinations more convenient for parents and increasing the number of students vaccinated against HPV in our communities, so we are offering school-based vaccination clinics. It is recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics, Oncologist, and the Center for Disease Control." For more, contact Long at 547-3756.

Air ambulance service discussed in Maddock

Excerpts from an article published in the Benson County Farmers Press, Minnewaukan

Last week local firefighters, first responders and other emergency personnel from Maddock, Leeds, Fessenden and Harvey gathered at the Maddock Airport with one goal in mind - improving emergency response in rural areas.

Karla McKibbin of the Maddock Ambulance said they are currently holding EMT classes and she is optimistic about the students.

"This class is very promising," she said.

She said that while they have an adequate number of volunteers at the moment, they are always looking for more.

Air ambulance
Olson said they have staff in town and volunteers that are close, so they can usually get to the patients in a timely manner.

Transporting them, however, is another story.

She said Maddock is 35 miles from the closest hospital and when the roads are bad because of winter weather, the transport time is too long.

A helicopter, she said, "will be a blessing to us."

Based in Devils Lake, the Valley Med Flight program has a helicopter on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It would take just a few minutes to reach any area in Benson County.

Representatives from Valley Med gave a slide show presentation on the program and how to secure a landing zone if they are needed.

The helicopter is an AS 350B3E, single-engine aircraft. The fuel tank can carry enough for four hours of flight time, although they typically only carry enough to last two hours.

There are two pilots always on duty, one for the day, another for the night, and they stay right at Mercy Hospital for quick response time. There is always a paramedic and nurse on board.

The inside of the aircraft is small but Randall said they are able to perform any procedures on board that would be possible in the emergency room or ICU unit.

Harvey FFA members at National Convention

Nine members of the Harvey FFA attended the 87th National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky. The year's theme was "Go All Out" and attracted over 664,409 members and guests from across the nation.

Harvey FFA members attending were Claire Anderson, Westen Feickert, Aaron Knudtson, Shaun Kourajian, McKenzie Lault, Wyatt Lault, Brett Muscha, Catelyn Perbix, and Travis Pedersen.

Members attended general sessions, leadership seminars and the Ag Career Expo and exposition. Members also had the opportunity to tour Churchill Downs, Louisville Slugger Factory and the Warm Springs Ranch in Missouri, where the world famous Clydesdale horses are raised.

It happened at the dentist office of all places

My childhood memories of visits to the dentist are pretty horrible. I can still picture myself sitting in the chair at Dr. Wachtler's office, horrified. Frankly, I only remember the pain. No horrifying events. But the fear trumped reality, and I was very much afraid there.

One of my granddaughters has had a bad tooth – a very bad, broken-off baby molar. Traveling two hours to a dentist appointment with a frightened little girl takes planning, coordination and intrinsic strategic maneuvers. For a delicate matter of this magnitude, we were respectfully referred by a local dentist to a pediatric specialist in Bismarck.

Poor kid had been tolerating this broken tooth for more than a month, waiting for the appointment day to arrive. Rather than taking four kids and two adults to this traumatic event, her mother and I split the duties for the day. I picked the trip to the dentist.

On the way there, I did everything I could to assure Evie that everything would be okay. Her sister came along for moral support. There was nothing to fear. It was okay to be nervous. I would be with her every minute. I promised her there would not be a T-Rex anywhere in sight.

As we walked in to the building, she repeated, "I'm afraid, I'm afraid, I'm afraid..." Her sister repeated, "It's going to be okay, it's going to be okay, it's going to be okay." Strong and powerful grandma (that'd be me) marched forward with a child holding tightly to each hand. I directed the girls to the playroom while I checked in at the front desk. "Playroom?" I thought, "That's a good idea." There weren't any toys in Dr. Wachtler's waiting room. Soon, the girls found a fish tank. "Look, Grandma," Evie said, "there's Nemo and Dory!"

In no time, Evie's name was called. We left her big sister fully engrossed with a wall full of child-appropriate video games. As we entered the exam room, we enjoyed an amazing array of decorations and cartoon drawings from the movie, 'Finding Nemo.'

"What a cute distraction," I thought. I was a little anxious, half expecting Dr. Wachtler to come through the door. Evie, on the other hand, was as calm as could be.

When the assistant came in, I was glad to see that they still use the paper bib with the metal clamps. So far, it was the only thing I recognized from my childhood recollections. After the bib was in place, the door opened. I didn't have time to give Evie my final words of encouragement. In walked a kid who seemed too young to be a dentist, but

Another Perspective

by Anne Ehni
Publisher

he introduced himself as Dr. Travis. I don't think Dr. Wachtler was ever young, nor did he have a first name.

Now the real test was at hand. When Dr. Travis asked Evie to get into the chair, she snapped out of her calm cover-up and clung to me with both arms and legs. I must admit, I was relieved that she knew to be afraid. She wouldn't let go of me, so the dentist suggested I get in the chair so she could sit on my lap.

What!?! Me, in the chair? I took a deep breath and put on my brave grandma face.

Long story short, Evie watched a cartoon on the TV hanging from the ceiling. I held tightly to Evie's hands and waited with gritted teeth for the gasp that never came. She didn't even know they had extracted her tooth until they showed her a tooth in a little pink treasure chest.

I know why they had me get in the chair. I'm sure they've seen a strong and powerful grandma before. Their real strategy was to have Evie hold me in the chair. She didn't feel a thing, I didn't see a thing and the dentist was our hero.

While I hope we don't have much call for a pediatric specialist, it's nice to know that dental practice has evolved as richly as so many other facets of our world.

God bless his soul, Dr. Wachtler was a good dentist and a kind man. His job would have been a lot easier, I think, if there had been a tale of Nemo, video games for the waiting room, flat-screen TVs to hang from the ceiling and bubble-gum scented nosepieces for the laughing gas.

Questions asked and answered

Every fall, the North Dakota Game and Fish Department holds advisory board meetings as a forum to talk deer hunting.

This year, with a new proposal for distributing deer licenses on the table for 2015, no doubt that will add to the conversation.

Many avid deer hunters have known that distribution of licenses for archery, regular gun and muzzleloader has been discussed for years. Last winter Game and Fish held eight special "deer management" meetings around the state, followed by the spring advisory board meetings where deer license distribution was a primary topic.

All throughout this time, Game and Fish was encouraging input from state deer hunters, with a promise that a decision on any changes would be brought forward well in advance of the 2015 season setting process.

So when Game and Fish released its preferred alternative, many already knew that some type of adjustment for 2015 was under consideration.

Many questions have been asked and answered. Here's a few that seem to come up the most.

Would this new plan change the application process?

The application period and deadline would be the same. The system would just be programmed so it will not issue more than one license to any individual.

Is the application for a bow license now a part of the deer gun lottery?

North Dakota Outdoors

by Doug Leier, Biologist
N.D. Game & Fish Department
dleier@nd.gov

No. Bow licenses would be issued the same as in the past. If a hunter applies for a deer gun license and does not receive one, he or she will remain eligible to purchase an archery license, which is good for any legal deer statewide.

How would it work for hunters who still want to apply for both gun season and muzzleloader licenses?

In the past there have been two separate applications and drawings. The new system would have one application and one drawing, and hunters who apply for both gun and muzzleloader will select a preference on the application. The way this will work is, when an applicant's name comes up in the lottery, and if both a first-choice gun and muzzleloader license are available, the computer will issue the preferred license, and the applicant's name will be removed from consideration for the other license. If you apply for both and your preferred choice is not available when your name comes up, the computer will issue the other choice.

Will anyone lose accumulated bonus points if they just don't apply for one license or the other?

No. If you apply for both deer gun and muzzleloader and are drawn for one, you would not lose points for the other one, but you will not gain a bonus point for that choice either. If you only apply for one type of license, you will not lose points for the other type.

If someone draws a license in the deer gun lottery, could they also use that license during the bow season as well, as long as they hunt with a bow?

Yes. Hunters who draw a unit deer gun license can also pursue that deer with a bow during the entire length of the bow season as long as the tag is not filled. But, that license is only valid in the specific unit, and for the deer type listed on the license.

Anyone who wants to learn more about this new plan can check out the November issue of North Dakota Outdoors magazine, now online at the Game and Fish website at gf.nd.gov. Dates and locations of the fall advisory meetings are also featured on the Game and Fish website.

Deer management will likely be a topic at Game and Fish advisory board meetings. NDGF photo

Letters policy

The Herald-Press welcomes letters. It's an excellent way to share your opinions. However, certain limitations exist on what we'll publish. Letters MUST include the writer's name, signature, address and phone number as a means of verification. Anything the publisher deems libelous, or anything of a personal nature between private individuals or businesses will not be published. All letters are subject to editing at the publisher's discretion. Letters must have a specifically local context. Mass mailings, form letters, or letters of a commercial nature will generally be discarded. The Herald-Press does not warrant the accuracy of information in letters we publish, nor do opinions expressed in letters necessarily represent the opinions of The Herald-Press, its publisher or its staff.

Klein re-elected as senate assistant majority leader

North Dakota Senate Republicans convened an election meeting Wednesday, Nov. 12, to select leadership for the upcoming 64th Legislative Assembly. Senate Republicans are the majority party of the North Dakota Senate, holding 32 of the 47 N.D. Senate seats.

Senator Rich Wardner was re-elected to the position of senate majority leader. Wardner, of Dickinson, has served in the N.D. Senate since 1999.

Senator Jerry Klein was re-elected Senate assistant majority leader. Senator Klein, Fessenden, has served in the senate since 1997 and previously served as the senate Republican caucus leader. Klein noted, "Our N.D. constitution requires the N.D. Legislature to convene and adjourn within 80 days. As assistant majority leader, I will take ownership of ensuring that our legislative work is carried

Turkey time

The turkey roasting pan influences cooking time. A deep pan reduces the heat circulation, and a dark pan cooks more quickly than a shiny pan. Using a roasting bag and covering the pan with a lid will speed cooking time.

Beside roasting and smoking the bird, we can grill or deep-fry a turkey. Regardless of how you decide to prepare your bird, ensure a successful and safe turkey dinner by taking some precautions. Like other high-protein foods, turkey needs to be handled safely from purchase through the time you enjoy the leftovers.

Buy the right size bird. Allow at least 1 to 1.5 pounds per person for ample leftovers.

If purchasing a frozen bird, allow about one day of thawing in the refrigerator for every 5 pounds of turkey. You can thaw the bird in water in a sink, but be sure to wash and sanitize the sink before and after thawing the bird.

For optimum safety, cook stuffing in a casserole instead of in the roasting pan. If you decide to stuff the bird, stuff it loosely right before you roast the bird and cook it to an internal temperature of 165 F.

Tuck the wings of your turkey behind the shoulders, which is called "akimbo."

Cook the bird to a safe temperature and measure the internal temperature with a calibrated meat thermometer. Sometimes thermometers that come with the

Turkey and Wild Rice Bake

1 (6-oz.) package wild and white rice mix
2 1/3 c. water
1 (4-oz.) can mushrooms, drained
1 (14-oz.) can artichoke hearts, drained and quartered
1 (2-oz.) jar pimientos, drained and chopped
2 c. cooked turkey, cubed
1 c. Swiss cheese, shredded
Preheat oven to 350 F. In a 2-quart casserole, combine rice with seasoning packet and water. Stir in mushrooms, artichoke hearts, pimientos and turkey. Cover with foil. Bake one hour and 15 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Remove from oven and top with cheese. Bake uncovered for five to 10 minutes until cheese is melted and golden brown.
Makes 6 servings. Each serving: 270 calories, 8 grams (g) of fat, 25 g of carbohydrate, 24 g of protein and 572 milligrams of sodium.

Salvation By Grace
 written by Lee W. Brainard

The Bible has only one salvation message — salvation by grace through faith (Eph. 2:8-9). While the religious forms that God requires have changed a few times over the millennia, the condition of salvation has never changed — faith in the grace of God. This is not God being nice to man, giving him an easier way of salvation. Grace is the only way. It is impossible to be justified by the works of the law (Gal. 2:16). Neither religious forms nor good works save.

But man tends to extremes. In our day many expand grace's anti-works platform to include the "obedience of faith" (Rom. 1:5). They reject commands and standards as contrary to grace and fault men as "legalists" for insisting that believers are obligated to keep the commands and standards of the New Testament. They insist that believers cannot be known by their fruits (changed lives) and accuse men of "trusting in works" because they trust verses like James 2:26, "As the body without breath is dead, so faith without works is dead."

This is not hard to think through, if a man will think. When Jews in the OT times, like David, had their eyes opened to salvation by grace, they were not released from the obligation to observe the commands that God had given them. Likewise, in the NT times grace does not release the believer from the obligation to obey Christ.

Turn to Christ ~ Believe on Christ ~ Trust Christ

Home school support group and co-op forming in the area!
 Taking charge of kids' education is a challenge. But with the support of like minded families you will not feel alone. Let's build a great home schooling community together!
 The co-op will be a great place for the kids to have:
 • enrichment classes • a book club
 • drama, art, cooking, sewing, foreign language classes
 • an opportunity to be a part of a group and work together on various projects • Mom's chat and more . . .
 Meeting in Martin Baptist Church starting in January every Wednesday, 2-4:30 p.m. All ages are welcome!
 For more info & to get in touch please contact Julia Petrovic, 701-542-2537, m_petrovic@email.com
